Issue 3.0 30th June 2006.
Updated 2nd August 2006.

This contains information for both users who wish to become Trainers/Instructors and have limited or no experience (NEW) and for ESTABLISHED trainers who wish to be considered for Grandfathering.

Imune has established 2 categories:

- Instructor- for 1:1 (or a few users, say <4) rather than more formalized group training
- Trainer- group training.

The common elements and differences are explained below. The key difference is that classroom presentation skills must be demonstrated for the Trainer application. The application form will also help give guidance as to which class you fit.

QX-Ecllosion Device Trainer Technical Exam 19June06A
QX-Ecllosion Device Trainer Principles Exam
QX-Ecllosion Device Trainer Legal & Educational Exam
QX-Ecllosion Trainer Philosophy of Natural Medicine Exam

Qualification Scope

QX and Ecllosion Ltd. want to make sure that trainers have a really good technical base. To do this they have set a 2 part on line exam process to complement the application details.

- Part 1 Philosophy and Principles (PDO) (approx. 60 minutes)
- Part 2 Technical Competence (TC) (multi Module)

This is really important to ensure that good and correct knowledge is passed on in training. Accreditation is needed both for:

- Trainers who wish to be QX/Ecllosion Approved Device trainers and
- Trainers who want to teach IMUNE education modules that include use of the SCIO-EPFX-QXCI.

The tests will be on line. IMUNE has been contracted by QX to operate them. (These are not IMUNE education tests.) The access method will be provided on receipt of application.

If you are an established trainer then you need to:

- Complete Part 1 as soon as possible
- Complete Part 2 by 30th March 2007.
- Provide experience information in the requested format (even if there has been a previous application in a different format)
- Provide regular information on training activities.
- Do on going education for accreditation renewal.

If you are an new or less experienced trainer then you need to:

- Complete part 1 and 2.
- Apply and fulfill certain experience and expertise criteria.
  - Attend an accredited trainers class (or evidence to this effect)
  - Co teach, submit class and mentor review and 1 hour DV for review.
  - Present your response to typical questions/situations.

Accreditation will generally be valid for 2 years. For new or inexperienced trainers a one year provisional accreditation will be issued.

It is the manufacturers requirement that all trainers who wish to continue as authorized trainers apply as soon as possible and no later than 30th September 2006.

It is important to understand that this application is for technical training in device operation. It is not to be confused with an IMUNE qualification to teach clinically or application relevant materials. IMUNE issues two categories of Trainer Accreditation:

Category 1: Technical Competence in device operation for Ecllosion/QX.

Category 2: An authority to teach specific educational courses or modules according to an IMUNE syllabus, enabling the student to apply for the associated IMUNE examination and thus accrue credits towards an International License. Note that where an IMUNE education module involves application of the manufacturer's device that the educator must also have the (manufacturers) Trainer License in Device Operation.

Training Audience and Level

Initial applications have indicated that in addition to group trainings at Level 1-2-3 (basic, Intermediate, advanced) that some instructors wish to only train start-up or Level 1 and some only wish to train in 1:1 but want to ensure that they are compliant with QX/Ecllosion knowledge requirements. To facilitate this and avoid being overcomplicated IMUNE have revised the structure to:

- Instructor- for 1:1 (or a few users, say <4) rather than more formalized group training
- Trainer- group training.

And further give the option for a limited license within their expertise base to start with if he/she so wishes. Essentially the applicant should have the knowledge skills to:

1. Present at that level
2. Teach so that the user is able to fulfill the IMUNE requirements for that level.

The common elements are as under requirements below.

The essential differences can be summarized as:

	Instructor	Trainer
Proof by listing of trainings	1:1 record	Small groups
Demonstration of teaching ability in groups by	No	Yes
Co teach for experience	No	Yes
Submit 1 hour Digital Video for assessment	No	Yes
Present your response to typical questions	Yes	Yes

The applicant can elect to enroll for the Trainer qualification as a target but receive an initial License as an instructor.

Requirements

Existing Trainers

The manufacturer has determined the following requirements for an initial license

1. Statement of applicants training in device operation.
2. Demonstration of technical proficiency by 100% score in Principles of Design and Operation (PDO) examination (on line). See exam process for more details.
3. 95% mark in the Technical Competence (TC) Examinations.
4. Proof of experience in device application
5. Proof of teaching ability
6. Disclosure Statement (integral with application)
7. Ethics statement.

Items 1, 2, 4-6 are a must prior to any License issuance. It is recognized that there should be time allowed for item 3- where the trainer can prove one year’s training experience a provisional License will be issued for a one year period. The License will be extended to a full License if the TC exam is passed within the first year.

New or less experience trainers

New trainers often need experience in delivering training to be able to appropriately train users. This is best achieved by co-presenting. New applicants must:

1. Make their own arrangement to co-train with a licensed trainer for a minimum of 6 days.
2. Submit 1 hour Digital Video for assessment
3. Present your response to typical questions

The feedback from the applicant, licensed trainer and class will be used to assess the teaching ability. The arrangements and fees are not included in the Imune fee and must be negotiated separately with an IMUNE Trainer.

Concurrently items 1 and 2 can be taken. A new trainer will be issued a one year license. A two year License will be issued after this if all renewal criteria are met.

License Renewal

Licensed training will be reviewed by IMUNE on behalf of the manufacturer (as per contract requirements) including but not necessarily limited to the following:

1. Sole or co-training of minimum 6 days per year, minimum 21 students total.
2. Submission of information, including feedback forms for each training.

3. Satisfactory performance and/or corrective action, including conformity to manufacturer’s guidelines for interpretation of system information (values etc.)
4. Conformity to ethics.
5. Proof of continuing education:
  - a. 3 day seminar attendance per year where the manufacturer or appointed representative presents device developments.
  - b. 20 hours continuing education related to device use (seminars, on line classes, documented self study, research submissions etc.)
  - c. 20 hours CEU outside device application (e.g. nutrition, homeopathy etc.)

FAQ’s- General

Should I go for Instructor or Trainer?

If you do limited small number (1-4) start up training then go for an Instructor- you can upgrade to Trainer later by demonstrating classroom training skills. If you (or IMUNE) feel that at present you only qualify for Instructor then you can apply for trainer, receive an Instructor Certificate and then ask for upgrade when you have met the additional requirements for trainer. The NEW application fee of $400 covers this. If you go for Instructor grandfathering then there is an additional $200 fee for upgrading Instructor to Trainer.

Do I need any Therapist Qualification?

Yes. You need the IMUNE International License Quantum Biofeedback Therapist. Most applicants will either have an equivalent Qualification to enable Grandfathering or appropriate experience. Both Instructors and trainers will over the next year do the assessments that students will do so that they have experience of the assessment process that students will need to go through.

Do I need to have been and still be in Practice?

Yes. You can’t teach what you don’t have experience in and keep up to date by clinical use!

How do I know which level to target?

Work within your expertise level. If you feel this is Level 1 then apply for this initially. When you feel you are competent to teach level 2 apply for an upgrade. The certificate will state which level you are authorized at. This will be a combination of your request, the training that you have done and the experience that you have.

What if I just do start up and Basic (1-2 days)

Go for the Instructor Qualification, Start up or Level 1 depending how far you take the initial training. Level 1 syllabus will be defined more exactly by 10th July.

AIM: to ensure that the user and safely use the device for identifying and treating general areas (not specifics) of stress for friends and family- especially that they appreciate the need to be very simple to start with.

Core topics:

1. Safety- electrical and client.
2. Legalities of use.
3. What the numbers mean- reactivity, resonance, rectified.
4. The device as part ONLY of a stress assessment and reduction process.

IMUNE will enable access to on line self assessment tests to support their learning when they enroll for an Imune Qualification.

What support materials for learning is there for trainers?

Comprehensive support information (videos and text) will be made available on line. This is being worked on now. A schedule will be mailed to you after the application has been processed. Most of you will already know all you need to know. There is unrestricted access till you have got it right.

Why should I do the exam?

How else do we know what we don't know?

How else do we find out what we should know?

You have been given the gift of access. Why not use it to learn! The exams are structured into modules so you can work at your own pace.

Why should I pay for this?

We value what we have to earn and pay for. The fee covers administration and development costs only. This is not a profit making exercise.

FAQ's Grandfathering

Why do I have to submit another application?

Because I didn't get it right first time

Because things evolve

Because it had to start somewhere

Because you will only need to cut and paste and spend 10 minutes on it: I would have to spend 30x10 minutes!

Do I need to do this if I am already IMUNE Certified?/ if I am already an IMUNE trainer?

The IMUNE executive, after discussion with QX-Ecllosion, has concluded that ALL trainers and users should be brought up to a consistent standard. QX and previous IMUNE operators have instructed that any previously issued IMUNE certificates of any kind (practitioner or trainer) are now considered as expired. This was deemed the best way to ensure we start the quality education process.

Does this also make me IMUNE Quantum Biofeedback Licensed Therapist?

Almost! If you meet the trainer requirements and do the paperwork as per the grandfathering of practitioners that have been through Imune equivalent training, There is a reduced fee.

Just complete the additional aspects on the trainer application.

Remember that this qualification is a device teaching qualification- the manufacturer's requirement. All device trainers need to have practitioner qualifications. The Part 2 exams that you do to complete the trainer process are more in depth than the student exams and cover the same topics.

With thanks

John Kelsey

Vice Chancellor- IMUNE.

Device Trainers Exam (Course)

The exam is in 4 modules and can be taken in any order. It is called a course because that is the grouping title in the exam software. There is support material and resource provided but some trainers will be able to proceed without these.

1. Legal, Operational, Educational
2. Philosophy of Natural Medicine
3. Trainer Principles
4. Technical

Notes:

On acceptance of your application you will receive 4 emails:

- Instructions for use- including:
  - List of resource documents
  - download instructions for resource documents
- User name and password to login to the exam.

On completion you will see your score. This information and a complete score record will simultaneously be sent to Imune administration.

1. It is possible to scroll thru the test, to go back and check and change answers.
2. The pass mark is 100%. Access to the test is available until you get 100%. After this access will be disabled. You do not need to apply again to have access.

Since it is time consuming to do this and requires perseverance that I think it is unreasonable to ask for you to take it again. So: if you achieve 95% then it is acceptable that you send an email to admin@imune.net with either

- a. a corrected response and reason why you got it wrong.
- b. an explanation of why you think your answer is correct

rather than have you take the whole test again. (You may take the whole test again if you decide that this will support your learning process.)

3. The results and question answers are available immediately on submitting.
4. The browser buttons on your screen will be frozen: it is not possible to copy the questions.
5. The system records each access and each question access:
6. In accessing this test remember that you have submitted an ethics agreement.
7. When all 4 modules are passed and all other criteria met:
  - a. the qualification document will be issued
  - b. together with requirements to keep records of trainings that you have done
  - c. access details to the on line exams that you need to do over the next year to ensure that your technical knowledge is up to date.
